We Prefer the Republican Party.

The Portland Advertiser does not increase in lucidity as it grows more desperate over the collapse of that alleged great popular movement for the Australian ballot, but it is well to sweep everything before it. And indeed it has absolutely abandoned its stand, and is now seeking a new system of elections in Maine and has fallen back upon the adage of changing the method of elections only in certain towns of the State, so as to add a delightful element of confusion to our policies.

But when it pretends that it gathered from our recent editorial that we feared the secret ballot would ignore the Republican party, in the sense that Republican voters cannot be trusted "alone with a conscience and a lead pencil" it does not even deserve itself, but it does expose its own disposition to slur at the sincerity of Republican voters.

We stated distinctly that one great disadvantage to the Republican party would be that "many thousands" of Republicans would be deterred from voting by the ignorance and unfamiliarity of new-fangled methods.

The Advertiser may not think this "conspicuous to the party," and it is not particularly important whether it thinks so or not. But the fact remains, and it is obvious to all intelligent observers, that a much greater proportion of the Republican voters of Maine are men of affairs who find it difficult to spare time for their political duties, than is the case with the average of the Democratic voter, especially when it is massed in the larger cities and towns, where it is now proposed to apply the new and inconvenient requirements. It is undoubtedly to be regretted that so large a proportion of our business men are so disrelied to take pains about their political duties, but it is very undesirable to impose new conditions that are calculated to very largely increase the number who will be unwilling to take the trouble to go through unaccustomed and annoying methods of casting their ballots.We don't know just what the Advertiser means by saying that Mr. Mussey has said: "If the Republican party of Maine cannot stand the secret ballot the Republican party of Maine should go under." We don't know that Mr. Manley ever said any such thing, and if he did, we think it was a very thoughtless thing to say, and we do not essential for a moment to any such assertion. If it should ever become a question whether the Australian ballot or the Republican party "should go under" in Maine, we should have no hesitation in declaring our very decided preference for the Republican party as we do in the present case; and we have no doubt that the Legislature of Maine will take the same view "by a large majority."

Certainty vs. Uncertainty.

One of THE BANGOR WHIG's fears is that if the Australian ballot system is adopted the prohibition law will be overthrown. Gen. Neal Dry, however, who is quite as quick to ready to see danger to the prohibitory law, not only does not object to the Australian system, but is a strong advocate of it—Portland.Gen. Neal does quite frequently identify himself with the party in this State that simply acts as tail to the kite of the Democratic, or license party. His judgment is hardly entitled to the prominence which the Press for the moment attributes to it. The Whig has stated what is the fact, namely, that the non-sellers are practically a unit in favor of the secret ballot. Whether the efforts would justify their hopes, must of course, remain a matter of speculation, but in view of the fact that the opponents of prohibition are so strongly in favor of the Australian ballot, common prudence would suggest to its friends that they better let this system severely alone, especially as the law received a heavy endorsement last fall under the present system of voting. The one is a certainty and the other a leap in the dark.

Democratic Obstructionists.

The Democrats in the House performed Monday by the introduction of a long preamble and resolve scolding Speaker Reed for interfering with their attempt to stop the wheels of legislation, and ordering the Judiciary Committee to report a rule to make provisions for the impeachment and punishment of the presiding officers in Congress for the high crime of putting an end to filibustering. In counting a quorum Saturday, the clerks at the dock had counted four or five Democrats on one vote who failed to get out before the roll of the yeas and nays began. They were therefore counted as part of a quorum, although at the precise instant the name of each was called they were not in the hall. These Democrats therefore claimed that the journal was false in recording them as present and part of a quorum. They abused the Speaker and the clerks, amid loud hisses and great uproar on the Republican side. Mr. McKinley replied to them. He showed that they admitted that they helped vote that the yeas and nays be taken. They were present when the roll-call began, and admitted that they had dodged out to stop business of the American Congress. He held that they had been recorded most justly as part of a quorum, and amid loud Republican applause his position was sustained and the journal was approved. Then a vote was taken on the Senate bill to raise the salaries of United States District Judges to $5,000 yearly, and it was passed. It now goes to the President. This was the act that called forth the blood and thunder resolution presented by Representative Wike of Illinois. There is no law to prevent a man from making an ass of himself and the gentleman from Illinois seems to have made the most of his privilege.

Good Advice.

Speaking of the movement in favor of granting the right of suffrage to women the Portland Advertiser says:

It may be argued that this Legislature had nothing before it but petitioning suffrage, and that therefore it should have remained that there was no objection. Legislators are not jurocians, however, and it is perfectly reasonable for them to consider all the facts that any have a bearing on the case, whether brought up before them or before a previous Legislature.

This is good doctrine and it applies with equal force to the ballot question. The legislators should not be governed by the petitions that have been sent in as the result of the persistent efforts of the few men who are pushing the matter, but should consider all the facts "whether before them or before a previous Legislature."

If they do this one thing omitted

MAINE NEWS.

A BRILLIANT EVENT.

The Governor's Reception at the State House.

Thousands Attend From All Parts of the State.

The Affair One of the Most Successful for Years.

The Rooms Handsomely Decorated for the Occasion.

Special Dispatch to Whig and Courier.]

ATLANTA, Feb. 23.—A large number of people have visited the Capitol to-day to see it in its holiday attire and to shake hands with His Excellency, the Governor. The reception began at 6 o'clock and for some time before that the visitors were gathering in goodly numbers.

The rotunda of the State House had been tastefully decorated with evergreen and bunting. The band stand was located in center and draped with flags. Pulleyn's orchestra of twenty-five places furnished elegant music, which was much enjoyed by the many listeners. The new part of the building is lined with festoons of bunting and at the head of the main staircase is a glory of satin banners which is very attractive.

Bunting caught with American flags draped the council chamber.

The offices which will be occupied by the Secretary of State, were tastefully arranged, and were visited by many.

The Hall of Representatives and Senate chamber were unadorned and nothing would induce one to visiting them that the portions of the State House had been left in the hands of decorators.

Decorative work for this day has been put in hand by a few members who had time to attend to it.

The day was devoted to pleasure and viewing the people and sights and listening to the fine music.

New furniture has just been received for the lobby and new sofa for the Senate Chamber.

That for the lobby is made to fit the room for which it is intended and adds greatly to the comfort of the room. The chairs are upholstered in dark brown leather and are roomy and comfortable.

This afternoon a party of forty distinguished visitors visited the National Home, where they were welcomed by Gen. Stephenson.

It was for the largest gathering the Governor's reception of any ever held in Atlanta. It is estimated that ten thousand people were present day and evening.

Eight o'clock, when Pullen's Orchestra

Twenty pieces began the concert—drums, violins and fiddles within hearing were a solid mass of humanity. The exterior and staff in full uniform reviewed from eight to ten, and during that time the band struck up.

Through People

passed through his apartments.

At 10 o'clock the dancing began in the lobby and the room under it. The first set was composed of Gov. Burleigh and Mrs. President Libby, President Libby and Mrs. Burleigh, Speaker Wissell and Miss Neal, Gen. Best and Mrs. Winslow.

The program was an elaborate affair, containing on the outside the Coat of Arms of Maine and the title in raised gilt letters. Inside was a picture of Gov. Burleigh, together with a list of the dances and the names of the manager and aids.

The Order of Dances

Was as follows:

1. Lancers
2. Boston Candy
3. Quadrille
4. Polka
Lady of the Lake
5. Waltz
6. Saratoga Lancers
7. Polka

Great Costumes

Among the ladies there were many elegant costumes, Bangor and Eastern Maine being well represented.

Mrs. Henry Lord was dressed in black silk with lace, Miss White, white satin suit, with diamonds, Miss Brown, pale blue silk, trimmed with white; Mrs. Senator Thatcher, garnet silk and velvet, with diamonds; Mrs. Senator Powers, white silk, trimmed with lace, with diamonds; Mrs. Senator Ryder, black silk, trimmed with lace, Mrs. J. W. Porter, pale pink silk, Mrs. Judge Stevens, red silk, with feather trimming.

Quite a number of gentlemen from Bangor were present.

At twelve o'clock refreshments were served by Caterer Robinson, of Portland. The reception was a brilliant and successful affair throughout.

The Honorable members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery of Massachusetts were present: First Lieutenant F. L. Clayton, Adjutant George E. Lovett, Lieutenant F. C. Brownell, military editor of the Boston Herald; Capt. E. E. Allen, Past commander; Maj. G. S. Merrill, Past Commander; Col. H. T. Rockwell, Lieut. E. S. Wells, Lieutenant S. Foster, Lieut. C. F. Monroe and Sergeant W. L. Willey.

SILENT WITH LOUD REPORT.

A large motor passed over Madison this morning about 4:15. Those who saw it described it as appearing about the size of the full moon. It burst with a loud report,震撼ing the fragments in all directions.

HAZELTON, Pa., Feb. 22.—Five of the miners entombed in Stop No. 1 at Yeager, were found alive late to-night.

The searchers heard the faint tapping on the walls of the mine during the evening and sent word to the surface.

At 11:30 P.M. Superintendent McFarland and Caleb Williams were making a search in the breast of the east gallery of the north drift they came across the bodies of fifteen men lying in various positions, all huddled together in their efforts to keep warm.

Careful examination showed, they were except great pain. He heroically refused to be sent ashore. I took the captain by the arm and started to lead him forward when he heavy set washed away from my grasp. Again I got hold of him and assisted by one of the crew struggled through the tremendous seas sweeping over the deck. A sailor suddenly exclaimed "The captain is dead," and I saw that he was the case. Thirteen of the crew launched a life boat and endeavored to keep near the ship to render all possible assistance, but the high wind and waves soon drove them out of sight. Barclay and eight men were rescued on the vessel. The men will not be brought to the surface for several days.

The captain will be given them and every effort put forth to save their lives.

The men kept the contents of their duffels and the men were wrapped in them.

One was just strong enough to raise his head and look around. He was carefully carried to the engine house at the bottom of the ship.

Medical skill was given him there. The rest of the men could not be moved and were cared for where found.

one occasion that a particularly swarthy old Italian gave him better measure for his money and also larger and more perfect nuts than any other. Accordingly, being a thrifty man, even in small things, he resolved to deal with this fellow exclusively if possible.

The next day, after the departure of the elevated railway
he visited the vendor at his accustomed stand, and so purchased a pint of nuts, which subsequently turned out to be a rather weary lot, from another side of Italy. He had not got half way to Broadway when he came across the generous vendor selling his wares as usual, but in a different place from the one he occupied the day before.

The news paper man did not want two pints of nuts, and in fact he had not discovered the wormy condition of his recent purchase, nevertheless he made a mental note of the new stand of his chosen source of supply and passed along DOING AROUND.

The next time he had occasion to go through Park row, he called at the same stand. He looked about for his peticular vendor, expecting to find him at the new stand, but he was not. "His honesty has bankrupted him," soliloquized the newspaper man. "It evidently pays better to remain in one spot than to move about." So he purchased from another vendor and got among his change a plugged Canadian dime, which a horseback conductor subsequently returned to him with loudly expressed surprise.

This then happened several times.
The honest vendor always shifted his position and his would-be customer always bought his nuts elsewhere.

Let every enfeebled woman know it! There's a medicine that'll cure her, and the proof's positive!

Here's the proof—if it doesn't do you good within reasonable time, report the fact to its makers and get your money back without a word—but you won't do it!

The remedy is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—and it has proved itself the right remedy in nearly every case
of female weakness.

It is not a miracle. It won't cure everything—but it has done more to build up tired, enfeebled and broken-down
women than any other medicine known.

Where's the woman who's not ready for it? All that we've to do is to get the news to her. The medicine will do the rest.

Wanted—Women. First
to know it. Second to use
it. Third to be cured by it.
The one comes of the other.

The seat of sick headache is not in the brain. Regulate the stomach and you cure it.
Dr. Pierce's Pellets are the little regulators.
